Steve Bond is an award-winning producer, sound designer and re-recording mixer for film, TV and radio. He works from various locations, including his own 5.1 Pro Tools studio in London. Before turning his attention to film, he had a successful career in the music industry, releasing albums through major and independent labels across the world.

Steve received two Gold Awards at the 2019 New York Festivals for 'Best Sound' and 'Best Drama Special' for 'Shadowbahn'. He was named 'Best Sound Designer' at the 2017 Audio Production Awards. At the 2016 Music and Sound Awards, he won 'Best Sound Design: Feature Film', for 'Nina Forever' and 'Best Sound Design: Television Programme' for 'Messy Goes to Okido'. In 2015 he won the BBC Audio Drama Award for 'Best use of Sound' for 'The Boy at the Back'.

He has also been part of several award-winning and nominated productions including:
